

Matt was a key supplier and trusted agency partner . I frequently called upon Matt to support our Engineering recruiting efforts which included a multitude of disciplines from Software Engineering, DevOps, Leadership and Quality Engineering.

Focusing on QA specifically it was clear from the onset that his broad knowledge and vast reaching network of software testers would add significant value to our hiring processes and I can confirm that we were repeatedly satisfied with his contributions.

As a trusted adviser, I could also rely on Matt to produce extremely useful up to date market insights that would support and influence our internal hiring discussions. In truth, working with Matt never really felt like a supplier/client relationship and in my view he was an extended member of our internal team.
